

I have attached my mission statement to my computer monitor. Naturally, as an online student, I do my school work at my computer. Having my mission statement visible while I work will help keep me motivated. Knowing why you are doing what you are doing can be the only thing that keeps you moving forward some days. I think keeping my mission statement where I complete my work will help me focus on the work at hand and keep striving to make good on my values and action items.